Courage to Change: Embracing Transformation:

Desert seasons require courage to embrace change. Effective leaders demonstrate bravery by stepping into the unknown and guiding their teams through transitions. This courage encourages others to confront their fears and seize growth opportunities.

From a biblical perspective, courage is deeply connected to faith and trust in God. Scripture often portrays courage as a divine strength granted to those who rely on God's promises and step boldly into their calling. For example, consider the story of Joshua, who, after Moses' passing, was charged with leading the Israelites into the Promised Land. God instructed him to "be strong and courageous" (Joshua 1:9), assuring him of His continual presence. Therefore, biblical courage extends beyond mere personal bravery; it involves embodying trust in God's guidance and provision, even in the face of uncertainty and adversity.

Embracing transformation with courage also involves letting go of old ways and embracing new visions, akin to the biblical story of Paul. Initially known as Saul, he experienced a profound conversion that changed him from a persecutor of Christians to a devoted apostle of Christ. His story exemplifies the courage to undergo a fundamental transformation, reshaping one's identity and purpose. This transformation was neither easy nor without opposition, but through faith, Paul found the determination and courage to pursue his new path. True courage, as a quality of both spirituality and leadership, not only promotes personal growth but also inspires and transforms others. Today's leaders can draw from these stories to instill hope and resilience, demonstrating that by courageously embracing change, we unlock new opportunities and realise our true potential within a larger, divine plan.

Ephesians 1:15-21(NKJV)

“¹⁵ Therefore I also, after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love for all the saints, ¹⁶ do not cease to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers: ¹⁷ that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give to you the spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of Him, ¹⁸ the eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that you may know what is the hope of His calling, what are the riches of the glory of His inheritance in the saints, ¹⁹ and what is the exceeding greatness of His power toward us who believe, according to the working of His mighty power ²⁰ which He worked in Christ when He raised Him from the dead and seated Him at His right hand in the heavenly places, ²¹ far above all principality and power and might and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this age but also in that which is to come.”

Know when to seek treatment for your child

It is normal for your child to feel fear, stress, anxiety and other big emotions for a while after a traumatic event. If, however, your child continues to struggle after several weeks, stress is preventing them from functioning normally or the symptoms are worsening, it may be time to seek professional help. A psychiatrist, counselor or other mental health professional can help you and your child work through a stressful event and reestablish a sense of safety.

In daily study the verse-by-verse method is often most helpful. Let the student take one verse, and concentrate the mind on ascertaining the thought that God has put into that verse for him, and then dwell upon the thought until it becomes his own. One passage thus studied until its significance is clear is of more value than the perusal of many chapters with no definite purpose in view and no positive instruction gained. (Education, p. 189)

Navigating Wealth: A Christian Perspective on Money and Desire (Part 3, conclusion)

In the previous issue, we went through the various forms of exchange that have been used throughout history instead of money.

Regardless of the form it takes, currency should not be the ultimate goal for a follower of Christ. Instead, the focus should be on fulfilling the purpose for which God created each individual. God then has the responsibility to nurture that passion to a critical point where it can be monetized for both God's glory and one's sustenance. By pursuing your passions, you may find success and fulfillment, which can lead to financial rewards. This aligns with the notion that true prosperity encompasses more than just monetary wealth; it includes emotional, spiritual, and relational well-being.

3 John 1:2 supports this viewpoint by expressing a desire for good health, reflecting the essential desire for the soul's well-being and underscoring the belief that God wants His followers to thrive in every aspect of life. Balancing the pursuit of financial stability with spiritual and ethical considerations is crucial for a holistic approach to life and faith. — Dr. Paul A. Scavella

Laughter refreshes the soul. Enjoy our Christian #joke-of-the-day and share the joy with others.

A parishioner approached the minister after the Sunday service. "Preacher, I've been meaning to ask—why do we sing hymns so loudly?" The minister thought for a moment, then said, "Well, when you sing loudly, you're filling the church with joy!" The parishioner nodded, then asked, "And if I'm off-key?"
